

Five Steps to Building On-line

We empower individuals on the autism spectrum to reach their full potential while providing business-minded individuals with the opportunity to build a supportive and impactful community.

Step One: Set and Review Goals

Step: Establish clear goals for network growth and individual development, and review progress regularly.

Action: Work with members to set personal and team goals, and hold regular check-ins to assess progress and adjust strategies as needed.

Engage in Personal Development

Attitude, not aptitude, determines your altitude- Zig Ziglar

A leader is someone who takes responsibility for recognizing the potential in themselves and others. They have the courage to develop that potential.

Register for Darren Daily at <https://darrendaily.com> It's an excellent, inspiring, and informative 2-5 minute video that is delivered free to your inbox daily.

Step Two: Establishing Leaders

Step: Look for individuals who are passionate about making a positive impact in the autism community.

There are 2 streams of income:

1. Clients: 6 + clients will earn you 20% bonus !

Action 1: Reach out through personal contacts, community events, and social media to find potential clients.

2. Organization: The business model allows for moving individuals down into groups to ensure team support and energy. Laptop travels well with an online business.

We all work as a team.

Step: Team Building: As a leader you will want to build your teams, each consisting of FOUR members, creating a network that expands in groups of 4. Each of these 4 are leaders who wish to impact people and will build a significant community. Keeping in mind, some people may want to be just wholesale users.

Action : Reach out through personal contacts, community leaders, and social media to find potential leaders. Ads work well.

Step Three: Create a Supportive Community

Step: We build an inclusive and a supporting environment where team members feel appreciated, strengthened and energized while developing their skills.

Action:

- We will encourage a sense of participation, appreciation and belonging through regular webinars and online Zoom calls where individuals can connect with the team.
- We provide ongoing training and development opportunities.
- We recommend Darren Hardy, a renowned success mentor and former publisher of SUCCESS magazine. Darren Hardy's insights and motivational approach inspire individuals to maximize their potential and attain their personal best.
- Try it-no cost: Darren Daily at <https://darrendaily.com>

Step Four: Leverage Social Platforms

Step: We use social media and online marketing to reach a wider audience and attract new members. These members are people on the autism spectrum disorder and people who want to build an organization positively impacting the growing number of individuals with autism.

Action: You'll see our targeted ads on platforms like Facebook and Google, and benefit from the content we regularly post to build awareness and interest.

Step Five: Gather and Share Success Stories

Step: We collect testimonials from clients and business success stories from our leaders to inspire and motivate others.

Action:

- Gathering Testimonials: We will ask or collect testimonials from our clients with autism who have experienced personal growth and development. By sharing these testimonials, it will highlight their journey and progress building authentic trust and credibility.
- Security and privacy are of the utmost importance.
- Sharing Business Stories: With your permission, your success stories will be featured on our website, and social media platforms to inspire others and encourage them to join our community.